The members of the Dorcas Society of St. Andrew's Memorial Church, of which Mrs. George W. Kerr is president, opened a fair yesterday afternoon in the chapel adjoining the church in Living-ston-ave., near Morris-st., the proceeds of which will be used in reducing the debt on the rectory. There were five tables. The attendance yesterday was large and the articles found a ready sale. The fair will close at 10 o'clock this evening.

The Board of Supervisors held a short session yesterday morning, the time being principally taken up in considering Supervisor See's motion to sus-pend the rules and increase the membership of the up in considering Supervisor See's motion to suspend the rules and increase the membership of the Committee on Equalization from five to seven, by appointing two members from the farming towns. In advocating his motion Mr. See said that the committee should have been made up with regard to the three classes of property included in the boundaries of the county, the city, the village and the farming districts. As appointed by Chairman Davenport the committee represents the cities and villages, while the nine agricultural towns of Northern Westchester are entirely unrepresented. The opponents to Mr. See's motion said that the committee as announced by the chair was properly constituted, having been made up with regard to the valuation of the towns represented by the several members, rather than the classification of the property. The present committee, it was urged, represents a corrected valuation of $42,000,000 while last year's committee, made up on lines laid down by Mr. See, represented towns whose corrected valuation was only $7,000,000 of the total county valuation of $90,000,000. The debate on the motion was spirited. The motion was selared lost by a vote of 23 to 3.

The annual meeting of the Westchester County Agricultural Society was held at the Town Hall yesterday morning. Vice-President James Hopkins presided in the absence of the president, John B. Tompkins. PEEKSKILL.

A case of suicide or foul play was the principal topic of conversation in this place yesterday. Early in the morning John Peeler, employed in the Peekskill hat factory, while on his way to his work, discovered a body floating in the Hudson River. He called the attention of Walter Williams, the station agent, who, with Policeman Harman Engel, walked down the track and, securing the body with a rope, towed it up to Osborn's float. Here the body was identified by a number of people as Annie A. White, better known as Agnes White The body was discolored and disfigured, and had evidently been in the water some days. There appeared to be no marks of violence. Coroner Appar ascertained that the girl had worked as a domestic in the school of Esther Jewell recently, but had left there three weeks ago and had not been heard from since then. The girl was married to Jesse Lent on March 5 last.

The third hearing in the case of John D. and William Rockefeller against the Assessors of the town of Mount Pleasant was held in the Millard Building, in Main-st., yesterday, Franklin Couch. Building, in Main-st., yesterday. Franklin Couch, of Peekskiil, was referee. Judge Noah Davis, of Pocantico adla, was to appear for the Rockefellers, but was unable to do so on account of iliness. John W. Free, of Free & Murray, real estate dealers, of Tarrytown, was a witness for the Rockefellers. His examination, directed by Mr. Morse, occupied the entire day. An attempt was made to show by his testimony that adjoining property is not assessed as much in proportion to its value as that owned by the Rockefellers. He was asked to give the fair value of a large number of pieces of property. The case was finally adjourned until Friday, when Mr. Free will be cross-examined by Counsellor Millard.

The meeting between Alexander Duer Irving and Corporation Counsel Frank V. Millard, James Bird, president of the village, and Trustee Wright, relative to the sewer passing through Sunnyside Lane, took place in the Millard Building on Monday, Mr. Irving was unable to be present, but sent Washington Irving, his nephew, to represent him. Mr. Irving was willing to give his consent to the sewer passing through the lane, provided no further action would be taken to compel him to open it up to the public. President Bird said the trustees could make no such promise. It will be some time before the matter is settled. The citizens of Tarrytown are becoming more indignant every day. It is said that if the village authorities do not compel Mr. Irving to remove the fence there would be an uprising of the people, who would tear down the fence that obstructs the

The Board of Education of Castleton District The Board of Education of Castiston District School No. 3, in New-Brighton, met yesterday and opened the bids for $15,000 bonds, which had been ad-vertised. There were ten bidders, but when the meet-ing opened John M. Pendleton and George Sheridan, jr., the latter a former clerk to the district, and who was defeated for re-election, made a protest against the awarding of any bids, as they said the appropria-tion had been made lilegally. Some of the bidders be-came alarmed and withdrew their bids. The Board, however, determined to award the bid to the highest bidder, and the bonds were sold to J. Hayes & Co., of New-York, at $1,000. The bonds are 5 per cent and run for twenty-five years.

THIRTEEN OF THEM THERE.

NOW THE REPUBLICAN ASSEMBLYMEN-WILL ATTEND THEM AT ALBANY.

A lively party made up of thirteen Republican As-semblymen-elect dined at the Murray Hill Hotel last evening. The dinner was given under the direction of Assemblyman George C. Austin, of the XXIst District, as chairman of the Committee of Arrange-ments, the five re-elected Republican members in this city being the hosts of the occasion. When Assemblyman Austin first discussed the subject of a dinner with his colleagues, Harvey T. Andrews and Dr. P. H. Murphy, the fact stared them in the face that there were exactly thirteen Republican Assemblymen in New-York, including "Jerry" Sullivan, the baseball umpire, who had triumphed over Otto Kempner in the Xth by the meagre, but unshaken, plurality of three.

"Great Scott!" exclaimed Br'er Andrews, a cold perspiration covering his handsome face, "we can't stand that. To sit down at a table of thirteen? That would queer everything we have set our hearts on putting through this winter. Boys, it will never do. They talked it over anxiously, and finally de to call Assemblyman-elect Sullivan into the confer-

e!" said the unterrifled "Jerry." "What difference does that make to men of sense? Give us plenty of cold bottles, and thirteen at the table Nevertheless, there was a strong feeling prevalent that thirteen was an unlucky number, much ome people might pooh-pooh it and, after more conferring, the happy thought of inviting the two Westchester County Republicans, parts of whose districts were included in the newly annexed part of the city, struck Chairman Austin. The names on the list were therefore Richard Van Cott, of the Vth District; Charles S. Adler, VIIIth; J. J. Sullivan, Xth; Robert Mazet, XIXth; George C. Austin, XXIst; Richard Gilleland, XXIIId; Patrick Henry Murphy, XXVth; Francis E. Laimbeer, XXVIIth; Lawrence E. Brown, XXIXth; Harvey T. Andrews, XXXIst; James P. Degnan, XXXIIId; Philip Reinhard, XXXIVth; Douglas Mathewson XXXVth, and Alfred Ethelbert Smith and Richard S. Emmet, jr., of the 1st and 11d districts of Westchester County. That made fifteen all told, and no fears of bad luck haunted the dreams of the promoters of the feast after the decision was made

But Mr. Austin and his compeers did not take the possibility of accidental absences into account. When

The dinner was served in Parior H of the hotel. The table was beautifully decorated with flowers, and a fine band of music helped to chase away the dread of bad luck which had oppressed the banqueting hall when the feast began. Fears that the music did not dispel the cold bottles effectually banished. Some of the older Legislators narrated Albany experiences, and when the diners separated early this morning they unanimously voted the dinner both successful and delightful.

Peculiar interest attaches to the completion and opening of this cable, from the fact that the Attorney-General of the United States applied to the Company from prosecuting its project. The Attorney-timeral alleged that the company was a mere cloak for the operations of a foreign company. The United States and Hayti Telegraph and Cable Company replied, denying the allegation and declaring itself a bonn-fide American company, and that its object was to establish a competing service and to reduce the alleged "exorbitant rates charged by the existing company."

VIEWS OF VISITORS.

Senator Aldrich, of Rhode Island, who is looked upon as one of the best-informed tariff experts in the country, was in the city yesterday on his way to Washington. Senator Aldrich, about a week ago, in an interview, said that he did not have much hope of seeing any tartif legislation enacted during the coming session of Congress, and that he felt it was almost impossible for the Dingley bill to go through, and as a relief suggested an extra session of Congress. He said yesterday, in reference to this interview: "I have seen nothing to change my opinion, and, indeed, it has been strengthened by the discussion that I have seen carried on in the newspapers. Of course, we can all tell better what can be done after we get to Washington. Of other legislation I don't know much, and I cannot say what President Cleveland is likely to do upon the Cuban matter." felt it was almost impossible for the Dingley bill

Senator J. K. Jones, late head of the Popocratic ropaganda, much chastened in spirit but otherwise cheerful, was in the city yesterday. The ur-bane Senator from Arkansas, who had charge of Mr. Bryan's late lamented campaign, is here at-tending to his duties as a member of a Congress tending to his duties as a member of a Congress investigating committee. He is staying at the Murray Hill Hotel. Senator Jones said that, so far as revenue legislation was concerned, the Democrats would probably rest upon the laws now in effect and insist that in time they would meet all requirements. "We shall oppose the Dingley bill, of course," he added, "and show up its iniquities if any attempt is made to pass it. I do not think that the Republicans intend to put the Dingley bill through, however. They will probably force and extra session and then rush through another McKinley bill."
